DREAM

Everything is a dream.

Nothing is grounded on a foundation.

Everything for humans is build on a system of inter human verification.

The perception of humans can change everything.

Once this is realised man is free from duty.

The decision has to be made what has to be done under this condition.

For Martin Seifart it is to move the world towards a full circle where man is taking it's place not superior but as equally part in the world of all things.

Man is free as he wishes to be free.
